

Sinclair's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election illustrates the dangers of media consolidation.

Sinclair uses public airwaves free of charge and is legally bound to serve public interest. When large companies control the media, we get views pandering to corporate interests, not balanced democratic views.

Sinclair's actions show why media ownership rules must be strengthened.

Thank you,